

duo back

keeps your back fit.

Dr. med. Edgar Berbuer: „duo back“ statement

Through its ideal fixing the backrest will follow without problems any body position and enables an optimal support in "necessary bodies zones". Even in straight backwards seating positions a "thorax turning" is possible in the same way as in a front position. Even in a 45° diagonal seating position by which one arm (for relaxing reasons) lays over the back rest leads to an optimal support where you can even "loll" in a duo back chair.

Prof. Dr. med. habil. Th. Peters: „duo back“ long term studies

The two sided back rest not only supports the movement from front to back and back to front but also the side movements. Due to that advantage and due to the pressure release of the relatively strong thorax, I see the strength of the split back rest (duo back principle). The duo back principle fulfills through its construction and design as well as through its individual adjustments the demand for efficient support of the back in the front, middle and back seat position.

scientific and medical opinions

Dr. med. Werner Wilhelm: orthopedic statement

Through the combination of the permanent front and rear adjustment with the new additional and mobile back shell, nearly in every individual seat position there is a support by the backrest; therefore the GRAHL office chair really offers a "dynamic seating". Even working in back or side rest position by following and turning of the shell a support is reached. The new construction helps to avoid health damage due to long seating.

The duo back is the office chair which guarantees high seat comfort in the long run.

Due to the split back rest, the two separate halves move independently and flexible from each other, this for years successful seating principle has set new standards. Your body remains flexible and moveable, the seat muscular is supported and unhealthy pressure is avoided. The effect is like a back massage. The result: you feel intensively fit and you sit healthy. According to proved information the duo back releases the pressure for the column up to 50 % more than standard back rests.

The duo back is available as a swivel office chair, executive chair, visitor swinger and 4 leg model.
